

It is the duty of every employer..."to provide systems of work that are planned, organised, performed and maintained so as to be, so far as is reasonably practicable, safe and without risk to health." Section 8(2) e: The Safety, Health and Welfare at Work Act 2005.

A successful organisation does not come about by chance, but as a result of a fully thought out and properly implemented system of work. To get work done safely an organisation needs a "safe system of work". This is a legal requirement of every employer which includes every Local Authority in the country. Safety is rightly seen to be an integral part of management. It is however, also an integral part of policy making. This training seminar will provide councillors with the knowledge to help them to fully play their part in their safety policy making role.

The speakers at this seminar are experienced professionals, who have been involved for many years in their respective disciplines.
